

University of Eloued

Faculty of Arts and Languages

Department of Arts and English Language

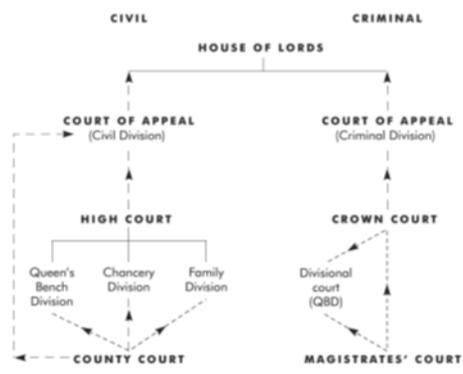

First Semester Examination in British Civilization

Task 1. The UK does not have a written constitution; according to you on what basis is its political system (division of power, power of each division, central and local administration ...) grounded? Illustrate your analysis with concrete examples. (7pts)

Students are required to explain how the different types of law (Statute, Common, Scottish, Irish, and European Laws) do organize the political system in the UK.

Task 2. Describe the structure of the court system in England and Wales before the 2005 Constitutional Reform Act. Start from bottom to top. Move horizontally (when you talk about one court in the civil section move to the same level in the criminal one or vice versa). (7pts)

The description should follow levels provided in this framework

Task 3. Under the 2005 Constitutional Reform Act, a person is not qualified for the position of Lord Chancellor unless he/she meets the following requirements: (6pts)

The position of Lord Chancellor requires these qualifications: A Minister of the Crown, MP, Law practitioner, University teacher of law

The answer should be provided in your own words